

ASHA REGIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

American Saddlebred Horse Association Regional Championships are a part of the Association's ongoing efforts to improve public education about the breed as well as to increase competitive opportunities for all levels throughout the nation.

The first American Saddlebred Horse Association Regional Championships were named from the Northeastern Regions, made up of United States Equestrian Federation Regions 11 and 12, at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show in Harrisburg in October, 2005.

The ASHA Northeastern Region includes states from Virginia to Maine. With more than 30,000 spectators annually and as the largest multi-breed indoor horse show in the country, the Pennsylvania National Horse Show provided the perfect showcase for the breed and the inaugural Regional Championships.

During the year which followed the first Regional Championships at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show, the ASHA began developing Regional Championships for all 12 of the USEF Saddlebred Regions (no competition for Region 6/7 was designated for 2006, although exhibitors from those regions were permitted to compete for Regional Championships in Regions 5 or 10). On July 31, 2006, the Executive Committee of the American Saddlebred Horse Association for the first time designated Regional Championship competitions throughout the United States, for both 2006 and 2007. For 2008, designations will be made no later than July 31, 2007, so other interested competitions may apply in time for consideration for future recognition.

It is important to note that not all of the Regional Champions actually won the class. Some of the Regional Champions finished reserve, third, fourth and so on, but were named champions as a result of residency qualifications for the horses finishing ahead of them. Listed are Regional Champions or Co-champions named in each of the USEF Saddlebred Regions that had shows designated in 2006.

REGION 1 WEST COAST AND SOUTHWEST REGIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

Due to the vast geographical area of Region 1, two competitions were designated to award Regional Co-champions: the California Saddle Horse Futurity in Pomona, California and the Arizona Saddlebred Futurity in Scottsdale, Arizona.

The following were crowned Regional Co-champions in the West Coast Regional at the California Saddle Horse Futurity September 14-17, 2006:
